ANTIETAM NATIONAL CEMETERY

N March, 1865, the State of Maryland appropriated $7,000, and appointed four Trustees, viz.:

***********************

Augustine A. Biggs, of Sharpsburg, Md., President.

Thomas A. Boullt, of Hagerstown, Md., Secretary and Treasurer.

General Edward Shriver, of Frederick, Md.

Charles C. Fulton, of Baltimore, Md.

Said Trustees were instructed by the State of Maryland to purchase and inclose a suitable lot of ground on the battlefield of Antietam as a final resting place for the sacred remains of our brave soldiers who fell in that battle. Said Trustees at once entered upon the discharge of their duties. They purchased a suitable lot of ground in the suburbs of Sharpsburg, in sight of Burnside Bridge, Dunkard Church, Headquarters of General McClellan and General Lee. On this ground was the projection of a huge rock, upon which General Lee stood at intervals, where he could observe the movements of both the Federal and his own lines of battle, and issue orders to his corps and division commanders, until the advance of the Union Army drove him and his host beyond the town of Sharpsburg. (This rock has since been removed).

An act of the Maryland Legislature, March 23, 1865, that the expenses incident to the removal of the dead, enclosing and ornamenting the cemetery, etc., shall be appropriated among the States connecting themselves with the corporation, according to their population.

The appropriations made by the different States amounted to $62,229.77. In addition to the $7,000 appropriated by the State of Maryland, at its extra session in January, 1866, voted unanimously the additional appropriation of $8,000, thus making the sum altogether appropriated by her to the amount of $15,000.

The removal of the dead was commenced in October, 1866, by the United States Burial Corps, detailed by the General Government for the purpose, under the superintendence of Lieutenant John W. Shearer. This work was completed in August, 1867.

The local Trustees did not confine their action to the removal of the dead who fell at the battle of Antietam, but deemed it proper, at the suggestion of the authorities at Washington, to remove all the Federal dead who had been buried in Washington, Alleghany, and Frederick counties, Maryland. They were exhumed, placed in coffins, and delivered to the Superintendent, who buried them at the expense of the Association. Most of the Maryland dead, however, were removed by their friends immediately after the battle; also, Pennsylvania and other States removed a great many of their dead prior to the establishment of the National Cemetery.

In the burial of the dead every coffin was numbered, and a corresponding number entered in a book kept for this purpose, with the name, Company and State, when they could be ascertained, so that, at any time, by reference to the records, the location of any grave can at once be found. A peculiarity characteristic of this cemetery is, that a person occupying a position in the centre of the grounds (at monument) with his face turned to any point of the compass, can, with a good field glass, read the inscription on every headstone contained therein. The Cemetery is inclosed by a massive stone wall on three sides. This wall varies in height according to the slope of the ground, but on the inside a uniform height of 4 feet 3 inches below the coping, has been obtained by grading. In some places the wall is 12 to 16 feet high on the outside. The coping is 8 inches thick and 2 feet 5 inches wide; entire length of coping around the wall, 2,700 feet. On the north or front side there is a stone wall and coping about 3 feet high, surmounted by a neat and heavy iron fence. The wall and coping is built with gray limestone. The iron fence cost $6.00 per foot (lineal), of which there is about 600 feet. The main entrance is in about the centre of the iron fence and is closed by handsome iron gates, two drive and two foot, at a cost of $800.

The Cemetery itself is located on a gentle rise, from whence a survey of almost the entire battlefield may be enjoyed, while within the scope of the eye's range lies an unobstructed tract of country, miles in extent, taking in the distant South Mountain, memorable as the spot where the Confederate General Lee received his first check during the invasion of Maryland, and which caused him gradually to fall back with his army until it rested on the waters of the Antietam, and made a final stand only to be again defeated. In the far distance also looms up, in their majestic prominence, the continuous chain of the so-called Maryland Heights, rendered notorious as the rendezvous of John Brown prior to his raid on Harper's Ferry.

But a short distance from the foot of the Cemetery grounds flow the placid waters of Antietam, which gave its name to the conflict here waged, and which will be rendered memorable forever in story and in song.

The plan forms within the walls of the Cemetery a semi-ellipsis, divided into segments of circles, sections and parallelograms of varying size, to correspond with the number of the loyal dead from the different States represented in the battle, and each division is divided into sections of graves and numbered in order, and in States. That portion of the grounds devoted to this purpose begins at a point within about one hundred and thirty feet from the main entrance of the Cemetery. An arbor-vitae hedge, neatly trimmed and about 4½ feet high, forms a belt around the burial sections and bordering an eighteen-foot avenue, thus leaving a large open space between it and the wall, which extends along the line of the Sharpsburg and Boonsboro' pike in front. A main carriage drive, about 18 feet in width, leads from the entrance through the grounds, from which branches in different directions subordinate roads and walks leading to every part of the Cemetery, which are all well turfed with sod. The entire grounds are leveled to a uniform surface and well sodded, the grass being cut from three to four times a month during the growing season, making it look very beautiful at all times, and containing a thorough system of tube drainage, very complete, and which proves itself very valuable in maintaining good conditions against injury arising from heavy rains.

The grounds are also beautifully ornamented with the choicest assortment of evergreens, deciduous trees, and flower shrubbery.

Near the entrance to the Cemetery, and within the inclosure is a neat and commodious Lodge House, designed for the occupancy of the Superintendent of the Cemetery, with an office and reception room for the comfort and convenience of visitors.

Monuments.

In the centre of the grounds is erected a monument commemorative to the great event of the battle, and the heroism of those who sleep at its foot and around it. It is the colossal statue of an American soldier standing guard over the remains of the loyal dead, who are buried all around him, with this inscription on the die or shaft: "Not for Themselves, but for Their Country, Sept. 17th, 1862." This is the largest work of its kind in the country. The soldier stands twenty-two feet in height and the entire monument is forty seven feet high, weighing in all about 250 tons. The statue alone weighs twenty-nine tons. It is entirely of granite from the Westerly granite quarry at Westerly, R. I., and cost thirty thousand dollars.

Gun Monuments.

In passing up the main avenue, about a hundred feet from the entrance, are planted two iron guns, as monuments; the gun on the left is a 32-pound Columbiad, captured from the Confederates at Harper's Ferry (Bolivar Heights) by General Geary's men (28th Regiment P. V.) in 1861 and transported at once up the Chesapeake and Ohio canal to Williamsport, Md., and was brought from there to this spot in 1867. The gun on the right is a 12-pound rifled piece, was disabled near the foot of Elk Mountain (north) and about two miles east by north from the National Cemetery.

On the officers' section, near the Cemetery, and about a hundred and fifty feet due north of the large soldier monument, was erected in 1887, a neat and appropriate monument in memory of the fallen comrades who are buried in this Cemetery, by their surviving comrades of the 20th Regiment, N. Y. Vols. It is four feet six inches square at the base and nine feet high; on the second base or shaft, in front, is the following inscription: "20th Regiment N. Y. Vols. Turner Rifles, 3rd Brigade, 2nd Division, 6th Army Corps, 1861-1863." The statuary consists of a drum with regulation cap and corps badge, a wreath hanging over the drum; also belt with U. S. plate, cartridge box, bayonet scabbard, and canteen, hanging around on the drum. The entire monument is of granite from Westerly, R. I. Cost, eleven hundred dollars.

The dedication of the grounds to the sacred purposes for which they were designed, occurred on the fifth anniversary of the battle—the 17th day of September, 1867—at which time also was laid the corner-stone of the monument, with appropriate ceremonies.

Through the sacrifices and blood they shed, and the lives they rendered up, the Union has been preserved, our institutions are unimpaired, and our Government is strengthened; therefore, should we honor and keep green the memory of the loyal volunteer whose work has been accomplished, and the benefit of whose deeds and prowess as a nation we to-day enjoy.

Union Coldiers' Graves on Antietam Battlefield.

The whole number of bodies interred in the Cemetery amount to 4,734, of which 2,869 are known, and 1,865 unknown, a number exceeding those interred in the Gettysburg Cemetery by 1,147. In the year 1877 the Cemetery was transferred to the United States Government and is now under its care and maintenance. The expenditure up to 1877 was in the neighborhood of one hundred thousand dollars. The cost and expenditure on the Cemetery at this time is estimated at sixteen hundred dollars per annum.

Address of Governor Swann.

The ceremonies were commenced by Governor Swann, who delivered a brief speech, which was cheered at the conclusion, as follows:

Fellow Countrymen—Before proceeding with the programme, which has been handed me by the Committee of Arrangements, it seems appropriate that, as the official organ of the State of Maryland, upon whose soil and with whose hearty co-operation this Cemetery has been founded, I should extend a cordial welcome to His Excellency the President of the United States and his Cabinet the Governors of our sister States, and the distinguished guests who have come to participate in the ceremonies of this most interesting occasion.

During the administration of my immediate predecessor, the first appropriation was made by the State of Maryland towards establishing a burial place for the dead who fell upon the battlefield of Antietam.

At a subsequent period, the appropriation thus made having been found inadequate, upon the application of the Commissioners charged with this trust, a further sum was added in response to a communication made by myself to the Legislature in this behalf. Maryland having thus done her share in providing a burial place for these brave and patriotic men, the co-operation of our sister States was invoked to lend their aid in throwing around it a national interest, and the most liberal contributions have been accordingly made by nearly all the States in the removal of their dead, the erection of monuments, and in adding to the attractiveness of this beautiful spot. The work, so far as it has progressed, is now before you.

The flag which floats over us to-day is the flag of our Union. The sword of battle has been sheathed. The tramp of contending armies, the embittered strife of father against son, and brother against brother, no longer resounds within our borders. The star of this great Republic is again in the ascendant. In the calm sunshine of peace we are here to mingle our tears with the survivors of the illustrious dead who have sacrificed their lives for their country, and are sleeping upon this field.

May I not, in this solemn hour, invoke the interposition of Almighty God for a speedy restoration of harmony and brotherly love throughout this broad land; and that North, South, East and West, laying aside the animosities of the past, we may stand together hereafter, and in all future time, as one people, having a common origin and bound together by a common destiny? May this Union be perpetual.

Next followed prayer by Rev. Hiram Matison, D. D., of New Jersey. Then the hymn composed by Rev. Edward Meyer, was sung by the assemblage.

HYMN I .- Old Hundred.

"Aceldama!" O Lord, our God, Who evermore dost Israel keep, Watered in tears, baptized in blood, Thou givest our beloved sleep.

They came at Freedom's trumpet call, From hall and cottage, fane and dome, Venturing limb and life, and all For Truth and Right, for hearth and home!

Thousands of heroes bit the dust,
Antietam, on thy crimson field!
Thrice armed were they, with quarrel just,
The Lord their banner, sun and shield.

Lift high the granite shaft for all That fell where duty summoned them; Their country's star-gem'd flag their pall, A Nation's wail their requiem!

O Lord! and shall they live again,
These bones, the seed of crimson strife?
Thy Spirit breathes upon these slain,
And they shall thrill with endless life.

In living hope, then, we commit
This precious dust, for Freedom giv'n,
To thee, till angels gather it,
Transfigured in the urn of Heav'n!

The corner-stone of the Monument was then laid according to Masonic rites.

M. W. Grand Master.—Right Worshipful Senior Grand Warden: The Grand Lodge of Maryland having been assembled for the purpose of Laying the Corner-Stone of the Monument, here to be erected, it is my order that the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of Maryland be now opened for the performance of that ceremony. This my will and pleasure you will communicate to the Right Worshipful Junior Grand Warden, and he to the Brethren present, that all having due notice may govern themselves accordingly.

Senior Grand Warden.—Right Worshipful Junior Grand Warden: It is the order of the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the State of Maryland, that this Corner-Stone be now laid with Masonic honors. This his will and pleasure you will proclaim to all present, that the occasion may be observed with due order and solemnity.

Junior Grand Warden.—Brethren, and all who are present, take notice, that the Most Worshipful Grand Master will now proceed to lay this Corner-Stone of the Monument in due Masonic form. You will observe the order and decorum becoming the solemn and important ceremonies in which we are about to engage.

HYMN.— Tune "America."

Father of love and might, Send forth thy holy light On us to shine; Be thou our Sovereign Lord, And May thy Holy Word Be to us shield and sword, Master Divine, Bound in one Brotherhood.

Owning one common blood.
Children of thinle;
Fill us with kindliness,
Prompt to relieve distress,
Wearing thy true impress,
Master Divine.

With joyful hands, to-day,
This Corner-Stone we lay
With Corn and Wine;
But do thou build up one,
Wrought in the living stone
Of our true hearts alone,
Master Divine.

Saviour Omnipotent,
Crown Thou our good intent,
With grace of Thine:
Honor this stone we rear;
And when thou shalt appear,
Save us who gather here,
Master Divine.

PRAYER, . . . . BY THE GRAND CHAPLAIN.

Grand Master.—Right Worshipful Grand Treasurer: You will read the inscription on the Corner-Stone, and list of the centents of the box.

(The Grand Treasurer will here read the contents.)

Grand Master.—There being no objection, I now order you, Brother Grand Treasurer, to deposit the Box, with its contents, in the place prepared for its reception.

The principal Architect then presents the Working Tools to the Grand Master, who directs the Grand Marshal to present them to the Deputy Grand Master, and Senior and Junior Grand Wardens.

SOLEMN MUSIC BY THE BAND.

The Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master and Grand Wardens then descend from the platform, the Grand Master taking the Trowel, the Deputy Grand Master the Square, and the Senior Grand Warden the Level, and the Junior Grand Warden the Plumb; the Grand Master standing at the East of the Stone, his Deputy on his right, the Senior Grand Warden at the West, and the Junior Grand Warden at the South side of the Stone. The Grand Master then spreads the cement; after which he directs the Grand Marshal to order the Craftsmen to lower the Stone. [This is done by three motions, viz:—1st, by lowering a few inches and stopping, when public Grand Honors are given; 2d, again lowering a few inches, and giving Grand Honors; 3d, letting the Stone down to its place and giving Grand Honors as before. The Square, Level and Plumb are then applied to the Stone by the proper Officers.]

Grand Master.—Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master; What is the proper Jewel of your office?

Deputy Grand Master.—The Square.

Grand Master.—Have you applied the Square to those parts of the Stone that should be square?

Deputy Grand Master.—I have, Most Worshipful Grand Master, and the Craftsmen have done their duty.

Grand Master.—Right Worshipful Senior Grand Warden: What is the proper Jewel of your office?

Senior Grand Warden.—The Level.

Grand Master.—Have you applied the Level to the Stone?

Senior Grand Warden.—I have, Most Worshipful Grand Master, and the Craftsmen have done their duty.

Grand Master.—Right Worshipful Junior Grand Warden: What is the proper Jewel of your office?

Junior Grand Warden.—The Plumb.

Grand Master.—Have you applied the Plumb to the several edges of the Stone.

Junior Grand Warden.—I have, Most Worshipful Grand Master, and the Craftsmen have done their duty.

Grand Master.—This Stone having been duly tested and found to be well-formed, true and trusty, it remains for me to finish the work.

The Grand Master then gives three knocks upon the Stone, saying-

"Men and Brethren here assembled, be it known unto you, that we are free and lawful Masons, true and faithful to the laws of our country, professing to fear God, and confer benefits on mankind. We have amongst us concealed from the eyes of man secrets which cannot be divulged, and which have never been discovered by the outside world; but those secrets are lawful and honorable, and not repugnant to the laws of God or man. Unless our Craft were good and our calling honorable, we should not have lasted for so many centuries, nor should we have been honored with the patronage of so many illustrious men in all ages, who have ever shown themselves ready to promote our interests and defend us from our adversaries. We have assembled here, to-day, in the face of this vast company, to lay the Corner-Stone of this Monument, which we trust may be safely completed and stand for ages both as an ornament to this place and a Monument to the ashes of the thousands who repose around it." So mote it be.—Amen.

Anthem, . . . . . . . . By the Choir.

The Grand Marshal then presents to the Deputy Grand Master the Cornucopia containing Corn, which he pours upon the Stone.

The Grand Marshal then presents the Cup of Wine to the Senior Grand Warden, who pours it on the Stone.

The Grand Marshal then presents the Cup of Oil to the Junior Grand Warden, who pours it on the Stone.

Grand Master.—May the All-Bounteous Author of Nature bless the inhabitants of this country with all the necessary conveniences and comforts of life, assist in the erection and completion of this Monument, protect the workmen against every accident, and long preserve this structure from decay—so that it may stand in all its beauty long after the bodies of those deposited here shall have crumbled into sepulchral dust; and finally grant us all a supply of the Corn of Nourishment, the Wine of Refreshment, and the Oil of Joy. So mote it be.—Amen.

The Grand Master then delivers over the various implements of architecture to the principal Architect, saying :

WORTHY SIR.—Having thus, as Grand Master of Masons of the State of Maryland, laid the Corner-Stone of this structure, I now deliver these implements of your profession into your hands, intrusting you with the superintendence and direction of the work, having full confidence in your skill and capacity to conduct the same.

EXTRACTS FROM THE ORATION OF EX-GOV-ERNOR BRADFORD AT THE DEDICATION OF ANTIETAM NATIONAL CEME-TERY, SEPTEMBER 17TH, 1867.

We have met here to-day, my countrymen, on one of the most memorable of the battlefields of our civil war, and we stand upon a site selected from the midst of it as an appropriate resting place for those who here laid down their lives as a sacrifice to the cause of free government and a National Union. We have come at the instance of the Trustees, to whem the subject has been more especially committed, to dedicate by some public and official proceeding, on this, the anniversary of the battle, the spot so selected, hallowed as it is already with every hill around it, in the heart of the nation.

To unite in this ceremony, the President of the United States, several members of the Cabinet, the Chief Justice of the United States, members of the National Legislature, Governors, or other distinguished representatives of most of the States whose citizens formed the Army of the Union, have honored us with their presence, meaning, I am sure, for themselves and those they represent, to express by that presence their enduring gratitude to the soldiers, living or dead, who so nobly stood by them in their darkest hour of trial.

When, directly after the battle of Antietam, an order was issued by the Executive of Maryland returning thanks to the officers and men of the Union army who had so successfully expelled the invader from our State, the Commanding General of that army, to whom it was transmitted, responded to it in terms that challenged our attention. Expressing, on behalf of the Army of the Potomac, their thanks for our appreciation of their achievements, and their hopes that no Rebel army would again pollute our State, he concluded by committing to us e remains of their gallant comrades who now rest beneath its soil. A commission so touchingly confided to the people of the State, to say nothing of the duty otherwise incumbent on them, could never become with them a subject of indifference or neglect, and at the first meeting therefore of their representatives in the General Assembly of January, 1864, an act was passed authorizing the purchase of a part of the battlefield for the reception of its dead, and an appropriation of five thousand dollars placed at the command of the Governor for that purpose. Directly thereafter he visited the ground, examined it, and after consultation with prominent citizens, selected this spot, embracing in its view the most interesting points to the field of battle, as the proper site for the cemetery to become, in time, a place worthy the noble purpose to which we to-day devote it, and of the nation to whom the charge of it should properly belong.

In reviewing the details of the sanguinary conflict to which we are about to refer, we find some difficulty, with all the assistance that established peace and the lapse of time have furnished, to fix with proper historical accuracy some of the facts immediately connected with it. The Union Army comprised 87,164 men of all arms, the Confederate force upwards of 97,000 men.

The battle of the 17th opened at the dawn of day on the spot where the skirmish of the previous evening had closed; each side seemed to have looked to this point as the one to be particularly strengthened, and as though anticipating the tremendous struggle of which it was to be the centre. General Mansfield's corps, composed of the two divisions of Generals Green and Williams, had crossed over in the night and taken post a mile to the rear of General Hooker; whilst on the Confederate side General Jackson had brought one of his divisions to the front, and substituting two of his brigades for those of Hood, that had suffered from the engagement the previous evening, placed the other—the old Stonewall division—in reserve in the woods on the west side of the Hagerstown road.

In the whole history of the battlefields of the rebellion, it would be perhaps difficult to find a spot which for an entire day was assailed and defended with such persevering, obstinate and concentrated valor as the one to which I now refer, embracing the ground on both sides of the road, just mentioned and in close proximity to yonder little church that nestles now so quietly in the margin of the woods.

On the extreme left of our line the Ninth Army Corps, under General Burnside, occupied, during the forenoon, the left bank of the Antietam, near the lower bridge, waiting a favorable opportunity for forcing a passage. The precipitous character of the banks of the creek at that point, and the advantageous position secured by the enemy's batteries along these heights to the west of it, postponed, it would seem, that opportunity until about one o'clock; but at that hour a gallant charge of the 51st New York and 51st Pennsylvania Regiments carried the bridge, and crossing by that and a neighboring ford the whole Corps crossed over. The bridge has been known in the neighborhood ever since the battle as the Burnside Bridge, which name for its pastoral as well as patriotic significance it will probably retain forever.

Thus ended only, for want of light to pursue it further, a battle that had raged for nearly fourteen hours, and which beyond doubt was the fiercest and bloodiest of the war.

Twelve thousand of our dead and wounded warriors, and at least as many more of the enemy lay stretched upon the field.

Thus in our heart would we enshrine the memory of the Union soldiers; generations yet unborn shall recount to their offspring the history of their valor; and long after brass and marble have crumbled into dust, shall their names be preserved as the men who perished to perpetuate what their fathers had so struggled to establish—this Heaven-appointed Government of popular freedom.

The following hymn was then sung:

HYMN II—"America."

Hallowed be all around!
This place is holy ground,
Henceforth, for aye;
Here mountain shadows wave
O'er many a cherished grave,
Where sleep the young and brave,
Home from the fray!

Here where the flash and roar

Battle and carnage bore
Over the main,
Soft, on your lowly bed,
Rest your fame-Laurel'd head
Our noble patriot dead
By treason slain!

Grief stricken hearts have throbbed-Sable clad homes have sobbed Far from your rest; Listen for steps in vain, That ne'er shall come again. To swell the victor's train From East to West!

Antietam's liquid gem Murmurs your requiem In mournful strain! Angels unseen stand near, Bright guard of honor here. Till Christ, our Lord appear, Mighty to reign!

Silence and sadness round
No bugle's martial sound
Your sleep breaks now.
Columbia, saved, now sheathes
Her conquering sword; Fame wreathes
Where'er true manhood breathes,
Your pale, cold brow!

"Glory to God on high,"
Peal through earth, sea and sky,
"Good Will to Men!"
Blending and rising higher,
Like Pentecostal fire,
Let Freedom's strains inspire
All hearts! Amen!

After the singing of the hymn, the poem written by Clarence F. Buhler, of New York, who was absent by reason of illness, was read by G. L. Cranmer, Esq., the Trustee of the State of West Virginia, as follows:

THE DEDICATION POEM.

Upon a bright September morn,
Five years ago to-day,
The pleasant hills of Maryland
Green and untrodden lay;
While autumn leaves were strewn around
In purple and in gold,
Like that Assyrian host o'er which
The plague at midnight rolled.

The pheasant beat his long tattoo
Where soon the drum would play,
And merrily Antietam creek
Went singing on its way;
But many a tattered banner thrilled
Upon the armory wall,
As it it felt the coming
Of a tempest soon to fall.

The tramp of Lee's battalions
Struck faintly on the ear,
As thunder in the distance tells
A storm is drawing near;
While stretched along yon bristling height
The Rebel files of gray,
Like leaden clouds that soon would burst
In ruin and dismay.

But round the flag of freedom
Her stalwart yeomen stood,
Resolved its stars should never set
Till they went down in blood.
No flower of speech lost on the blast
Had answered her appeal,
But marches like a gathering storm,
Or avalanche of steel.

With every hamlet adding
To the thunder of their tread,
As if the Revolution's graves
Were giving up their dead;
And students fighting in their dreams
The Punic wars again,
Wake in a holier cause to bleed
On red Antietam's plain.

The combat opened; and between
The valleys whistling then,
From every sulphur cloud was heard,
The cheers of Hooker's men;
And where the yellow corn had waved
Artillery sowed the field,
With shot and shell that make it still
An iron harvest yield.

'Mid showers of grape and cannister,
Along our lines of blue,
The soul of seventy-six struck with
The arm of sixty-two.
Beneath our flag, the Lord of Hosts
Fought on this recking sod,
For traitors to their country
Are traitors to their God.

In freedom's holy brotherhood
The Saxon and the Gaul,
Shoulder to shoulder as they fell,
Shared glory's crimson fall.
The Pennsylvania husbandman
And Western mountaineer
Across the swarthy raider lay
With empty musket, here.

Here fell the dauntless Mansfield,
Whose streaming locks of snow
Could never for a moment chill
The fiery heart below;
And yonder bridge that Burnside
So gallantly did hold,
Is now as classic as the past
The Spartans held of old.

Young Rodman as he prostrate lay Still waved his flag on high, And faintly with his dying breath Sent up a battle cry.

Well might Duryea, as true a knight
As ever couched a lance,
Smile grimly to behold his Zouaves
With springing step advance;
And in their onset Meagher's brigade
of Erin's hardy sons
Paused not till they were looking down
The muzzles of the guns.

The hardy form of Hooker
Tossed on the surging flood,
'Till he had shown a rifleman
The color of his blood;
While Sumner, Meade and Sedgwick,
Like old campaigners, made
Raw striplings breast like regulars
The gallant cannonade.

Historic Maryland! Such deeds
Have made, with brilliant gleam,
A Marathon of every plain,
A Nile of every stream;

And nevermore would Enrope boast Of her scarred grenadiers, Could she have seen the work that day By our volunteers.

Four times yon wood was won and lost, Where lay the foe entrenched, And to its staff our banners clung In scarlet rain bedrenched; When onward swept the brawny troops That never charged in vain, Our lion-souled Green Mountain boys And lumbermen of Maine.

And from their masked entreuchments
The veteran ranks within
Were hurled as if each bayonet
A thunderboth had been.

Ah! sweetly by the planter's porch
The orange tree will rise,
But never more its snowy bloom
Will cheer his wistful eyes.
For many a year to come his blood,
That blade or bullet drew,
Will make thy roses, Maryland,
Spring with a redder hue.

Thin grew the host that fought beneath
The fallen stars, and then,
Like gray wolves, backward, inch by inch,
Retreating to their den.
Unto the cover of their works
The baffled horde withdrew,
And soon upon the dust of strife
The evening sprinkled dew.

Then martial strains rose from our camp, And as the wounded listened,
The nerveless hand was clenched again—Again the glazed-eye glistened;
Some thought of fair ones, who afar
Would name them from the pillow,
Or maidens who that night would sit
Alone beneath the willow.

Some thought of stately marble halls,
That in the city tower'd,
And others of a humble cot,
Amid the vines embower'd;
Yet, whereso'er their thoughts were turned,
As memory's magnet drew them,
The spot was hallowed by the name
Of "Home, Sweet Home," unto them.

But when the morn in beauty broke,
Those heroes who had striven
So nobly for their homes, had found
A better home in heaven.
Then, softer grew the hard brown hand,
As with a woman's care,
Rough soldiers gently bore away
Their fallen comrades there.

And when the last long trench had closed
Above unnumbered slain,
All grades forgot an army lay
Encamped beneath this plain!
Yes! in dark barracks underneath
Rest those who chose the cypress wreath,
In service brief as glorious gained,
To laurels with dishonor stained.

Rest, till with those who bivouae still At Marathon and Bunker Hill, By louder trump than battle drew, They've marshalled for the last review. No more the pulse that beats so true Will quicken as the loud tattoo Ascends at sunrise from the camp, Or sternly beat the measured tramp:

But hands unseen will hither bring The earliest violets of the spring; And pilgrims who have viewed with awe The ruius of that haunted shore, Where shrouds of lava overspread The silent cities of the dead, And every step brings through the gloom An echo from storied tomb-No longer o'er the deep will roam, To leave a holier shrine at home! For every clod we tread to-day Is moulded from some hero's clay. And looking downward from the skies, Perchance the melancholy eyes Of Lincoln wear a tender glow As on this scene he gazes now. I feel a God-like presence near-The Great Emancipator's here! O death! where is thy sting? O grave! Where is thy victory o'er the brave? Not with dim sight and tottering frame, They sought the dust from which they came, With eye whose flash seemed of the storm, And war embodied in each form, They marched at Glory's clarion call To graves as to a banquet hall; And though sweet voices filled each wind Frome home, cast not one look behind, Through such heroic souls as those The Lord of Hosts his God-head shows!

Over them no mournful requiem floats, But bugles peal their loudest notes, As to the heaven of Fame they march Beneath our flag—its rainbow arch, With an eternal furlough blest, Sweet, sweet shall be the patriot's rest. Fatigued with toil whose fruits sublime Are budding on the bough of Time, And while above these sainted brave One stripe of their old flag shall wave, This consecrated spot will be A sacred Mecca of the free.

HOSPITAL SCENE.

Speech of President Johnson.

My Fellow Countrymen: In appearing before you, it is not for the purpose of making any lengthy remarks, but simply to express my approbation of the ceremonies which have taken place to-day. My appearance on this occasion will be the speech that I will make. My reflections and my meditations will be in direct communion with the dead whose deeds we are here to commemorate.

I shall not attempt to give utterance to the feelings of emotion inspired by the addresses and prayers which have been made, and the hymns which have been sung. I shall attempt no such thing. I am merely here to give my countenance and aid to the ceremonies on this occasion; but I may be permitted to express the hope that we may follow the example which has been so eloquently alluded to this afternoon, and which has been so clearly set by the illustrious dead. When we look on you battlefield, I think of the brave men who fell in the fierce struggle of battle, and who sleep silent in their graves. Yes, many of them sleep in silence and peace within this beautiful inclosure after the earnest conflict has ceased. Would to God, we of the living could imitate their example, as they lay sleeping in their tombs, and live together in friendship and peace. [Applause.]

You, my fellow citizens, have my earnest wishes as you have had my efforts in time gone by, in the earliest and most trying perils, to preserve the Union of these States, to restore peace and harmony to one distracted and divided country; and you shall have my efforts in vindication of the flag of the Republic, and of the Constitution of our forefathers.

or the constitution of our foreigners.

The benediction was then pronounced, when the President, Cabinet officers, Governor Swann, and others, left the platform.

Colonel J. M. Moore and his assistants formed the military, who escorted the President and party to the cars at Keedysville, which place they left at ten minutes to seven o'clock for Washington and Baltimore.

Calls were renewed for Governor Geary by the crowd, which constituted a meeting independent of the regular arrangements by the authorities of the State and the Board of Managers of the Antietam National Cemetery.

Governor Geary, being emphatically and vociferously called for, came forward, saving:

Fellow Citizens: After all you have heard to-day I had supposed you would want nothing more. The programme opened and concluded with prayer. Those who have waited must come in at the close; but, my friends, we still have a place in the hearts of the people. [Applause.] When you come to Pennsylvania we will let everybody speak we want to hear. Thanks to Almighty God for his preservation and care of the country, we have no gag. [Applause].

We have no programme for this purpose. [Renewed applause.] We have no gag on our programmes; but I am not here to say anything on that subject. The orator of the day has presented to you the history of the great battle, which we are now seeking to commemorate in the dedication of this cemetery and the location of the monument in honor of the heroic dead, who, in the language of the lamented Lincoln, [Applause] died that the Government of the people, established by and for the people, should not perish from the earth. [Applause.] The battle of Antietam was fought under circumstances of the greatest depression, when public confidence was lost, and the Army of the Potomac had been greatly diminished by the disastrous campaign on the Peninsula and in Eastern Virginia, and the loss of twelve thousand men by the shameful surrender at Harper's Ferry. [Applause] In Lee's coming to fight the battle of Antietam he had therefore the prestige of his victories to begin with. [A voice—That's so.] To appreciate the victory here we must renew events by the most liberal logic known to military ethics. While the Army of the Potomac had lost more men than the Rebels according to the authority of the latter, Lee was obliged to flee from the field, acknowledged himself vanquished, and a true and hearty victory resulted to the

My fellow-citizens, I don't intend to detain you long here, [Cries of "Go on"] I feel it improper for me to let the occasion go past without placing on record the hundred regiments of Pennsylvania who fought here. [Cries of "Hurrah for Pennsylvania," "Go on".] I proudly place on record these regiments of my native State, and draw for her a full share of the Victory of Antietam. [Cheers.]

The Governor then recapitulated the numbers of the various Pennsylvania regiments, remarking by way of summary: Five regiments of cavalry, six battalions of artillery, and fifty regiments of infantry from the Keystone State in the battle of Antietam. From the records I have drawn the facts. I find them replete with the splendid achievements of these men, and while I earnestly claim for Pennsylvania all the honor she has won, I say it was here, as always with that great State when she presented her full strength of numbers, she carried the Government to a glorious victory. I would not detract in the least degree from the glory and honor of other States. I would not deprive them of one particle of the glory of their troops on this battlefield. It was one sacred flow of blood in crimson stain at Antietam, not to any particular troops. The Soldiers of the Country won this victory, and we are indebted to Maine, New York, Ohio, Maryland, Wisconsin, Iowa, Pennsylvania and other States for the victory, and whose sons perished on the field. They are as dear to us, and are cherished as kindly as our own. The sons of all dyed this soil with their blood, and when the day dawned on the battlefield, it found Union dead all commingled on the field of strife; and while the sun continues to rise and set, and the dews distil from heaven, our children and our children's children will come hither to worship at this shrine, and they will recur to the patriotic dead here, and to the memory of those who fought and bled to preserve the Union and the rights of men, the rights of freemen in a preserved Republic. [Applause.] I have been speaking repeatedly for the last two or three days and will, therefore, conclude my remarks. There are here Governor Fenton, Lieutenant General Cox, and the Governor of Maine, whom, I have no doubt, you will be glad to hear. [Cries of "Go On,"] but Governor Geary withdrew after introducing Governor Fenton, of New York, who spoke as follows:

Fellow Citizens:—I dislike to detain you even one minute, but hesitate to leave this place without saying a few words. It is not easy to find words to fully and fitly express my feelings, or that may be most appropriately employed in the name of my State, whose eight hundred sons here sleep. There are times when human speech is too poor and weak to embody the emotions which the recollections of heroic deeds inspire. New York had almost 27,000 men on this field of strife, and about one-eighth of them were killed and wounded, but New York was not alone here, nor were the mutilated and dead alone from her ranks. Others came to-day, as I come, the representatives of States, united and living through the sacrifices of their fallen also-whom the nation alike mourns-and with fitting ceremony indicate the place where the devotion and valor inspired of our christian civilization blazed in the red line around these hills, to go out no more while the page of history shall endure. The token of our gratitude which we propose to place over the dust which is henceforth sacred as the index that in fit eloquence of silence shall challenge the progress of mankind. noblest thought of man, as to human rights; the utmost self-denial at the call of duty; the grandest example of national devotion of the strong to the weak, the characteristic of our great war here gaining firmer root, strengthened the trunk and extended the branches of the tree of freedom and peace, whose ripened fruit stands waiting for hands clear of all unfaithfulness and injustice. The oppressed of all lands, toiling and waiting for their harvest of freedom will evermore turn their faces toward our heroic struggle, and grow patient and strong. The statesman grappling the problems which impeded the progress of the people, baffled by selfishness, appalled by crime, or disheartend by indifference, looking to these heights above the clouds that surround him, shall see this pledge to liberty, and work on, and if it shall be at any time that wicked men seek to destroy or disturb human progress, reckoning on the ignorance which suffers, or the prejudice which bears the lowest and most friendless, will not they at least, pause before the upraised hand of our enfranchised people? True, we are not free from national trials; but, faithful still to liberty and justice, the result is not doubtful. And our lives also, as the lives of the men whose deeds we now celebrate, will be as sacred as they are, giving to the progress and happiness of mankind.

ORATION OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN AT THE DEDICATION OF THE GETTYSBURG NATIONAL MILITARY CEMETERY,

NOVEMBER 197H, 1863.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can longer endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We are met to dedicate a portion of it as the final resting place of those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work that they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain; that the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Shenandoah Valley Illustrated.

The Shenandoah Valley Railroad Company issue a finely-illustrated pamphlet descriptive of the Valley of Virginia, famed from the days of Spotswood and the Horse-shoe Knights, and made historic by the deeds of Jackson, Sheridan and other great military chieftains of the late war. The book is a chronicle of a leisurely journey through the uplands of Virginia, with running descriptions of the Caverns of Luray, the Natural Bridge and the Grottoes of the Shenandoah. Hardly a rood of the famed valley is lacking in historic associations, and the map accompanying the publication will guide the visitor to the more famous spots.

certainly, no more interesting region worthy of the attention of the tourist is to be found than the Valley of Virginia.

This company also issues a pamphlet known as the "Shenandoah Valley" and treats entirely upon the great natural resources awaiting development in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia.
